

ASTM: UPGRADE TO “EE+” FOR ESG RATING

Awarded the “Very Strong” evaluation by Standard Ethics

Tortona - November 9th, 2023. Standard Ethics, an independent rating agency that measures corporate sustainability, announced today that it has further raised the Corporate Standard Ethics Rating (SER) of the ASTM Group to 'EE+' (Very Strong) from the previous 'EE' assigned last December. Among the reasons that motivated the agency to improve ASTM's position, the Group's structural commitment to ESG issues and its sustainability governance framework are recognized.

Standard Ethics highlighted how the international expansion promoted by the Group over the years, especially towards Brazil and North America, has kept the Sustainability strategy firmly in place and how, in addition to extra-financial reporting aligned with best practices, the commitment to ESG issues is confirmed by constant alignment with UN, OECD and European Union guidelines.

This important result reflects the synergistic contribution of all the different business sectors and markets in which the Group operates and confirms the fundamental role that Sustainability plays within the company, both on a domestic and international scale.
